"SENIOR VODVIL" IS ANTICIPATED AS A MARVELOUS SCREAM

Secrecy Is Being Maintained Concerning Casts and Comedy Plots

FATALITIES EXPECTED BECAUSE LAUGHTER

Upper Classmen Get Off Their Dignity for One Night's Delight

Comedy, laughter, beautiful girls, beautiful scenery, excellent original ideas and myriads of other delightful novelties will be the means used to entertain those who witness the "Senior Vodvil" to be given in the Stetson Auditorium here Thursday and Friday nights. No casts are being announced; the practices are secret; the events on the program are being kept under cover. Everything is going to be a big surprise to the persons who will witness this showing.

The manager of the show has stated that it will be a marvelous scream. He predicts no less than six fatalities as a result of the over-use of the organs used in making laughter—not the pipe organ. He was very enthusiastic in describing, and yet not describing, the things which will come off at this showing.

For the one time in their senior year the Seniors will be OFF their dignity for one evening. They have decided to "show their stuff" before leaving Stetson. They are determined to put this finale of their college career across in excellent shape. They are not announcing their plans for the use of the proceeds of the occasion, but they probably have some good use planned to put the money right back to work for the Alma Mater.

Watch those Seniors—the greatest class to leave Stetson (this year). It is stated that remarkable talent has been obtained for the choruses. Many voices of excellent quality have been uncovered among the illustrious graduates. Following the opening chorus, "Sparks Divine" will be given. All we can tell about this event is the name. The rest is a surprise which will "hit the spot."

Lovers! Be certain to hear the chorus sing that famous "ditty, 'I Ain't Got Nobody to Love.'" When you hear this you will realize just how lucky you are.

Oooooooh! That "Indian Scene" is said to be marvelous in its setting. Isn't that glorious? The persons interviewed about the play was so enthusiastic about the beauty of the scene that he almost made a slip and told the Collegiate reporter what it was all about—but to no avail. He quit talking just too soon and no amount of encouragement would get him started along the same track again. The reporter confidentially thought he would have some inside dope on this play for publication. He failed. Guess he will be fired from the staff.

What can a red-headed mamma do? Listen to the Senior chorus sing, "Nobody Knows What a Red-Headed Mamma Can Do" and find out. No red-heads will be allowed at this play unless chaperoned by guardians, because they will not get out safely otherwise.

"Old Kentucky Home" or maybe some other negro folk song or some other such songs will be the numbers on the program for the "Banjo Trio" which will perform some time during the evening. We are confidentially advised (don't tell that we told you) that the banjo trio has been spending at least 12 hours daily preparing for this big event. They have consented to play only 14 encores!

The other chorus number is entirely covered up, although the title is very plain and affirmative "No Wonder." We wonder what it will reveal to us?

An idea from the intellectual brain of Dorothy Deitz, the master mind of the Senior class—"Town Book"—holds in store all kinds of remarkable surprises and delights for us. Many of the DeLand merchants are represented in this "Town Book."

Well, the list has been about covered. "Grand Finale" naturally comes last. Of this we know nothing. See for yourself.

DON'T FORGET THE "SENIOR VODVIL" THIS WEEK.

Stetsonite Hurt in Train Wreck Wednesday Night

John C. McCurdy Suffers Cuts When Tampa Special Is Derailed

Wednesday night students of Stetson University were sorry to hear of the injuries caused to John C. McCurdy, a former student of Stetson, while riding on the "Tampa Special" going to Jacksonville.

The train was going at a very rapid rate of speed when it was derailed near deLeon Springs. McCurdy was seriously injured, suffering a deep gash on the head, and several cuts due to falling glass. He was taken to the DeLand Memorial hospital, where eight stitches were sewn in his head. He is still in a very weak condition, due to a great loss of blood while being carried to the hospital.

A large number of students have been visiting him all week, for which he has been very grateful. In addition to this he was the recipient of many bouquets of flowers and letters of sympathy. It is expected that he will be out of the hospital in a few weeks, and will be back at Stetson next fall.

McCurdy has been writing a series of poems for the Boston Transcript and the New York Evening Post. He has just finished a book of poems called "Thoughts and Fancies in Florida," which is being published by the George H. Doran Co. He has shown remarkable poetic talent, and it is believed that he is following in the footsteps of Poe. Everyone wishes him success and hopes to hear of his early recovery.

STETSON FIELD MEN MEETING WITH BIG SUCCESS IN SCHOOLS

Friendly Feeling Found in All Sections Toward Stetson U

Students of Stetson and alumni reading the Collegiate will be interested in reading the announcement obtained from Dr. Hulley's office this week when an inquiry was made as to the success of the field men, Charles Henderson and Anthony W. Bates, who are now traveling in cities of Florida telling the seniors of this school.

TO THE STETSON STUDENTS

C. T. Henderson reports: "I find a friendly feeling existing toward Stetson in the places I have visited and I am becoming more and more enthusiastic over it."

Mr. Henderson and Mr. Bates are both finding that Stetson has loads of friends. The Baptist preachers are all interested in their own school, which is Stetson University. Some of the best school men of the State like Longstreet are full of enthusiasm for their Alma Mater. The students at Stetson may be sure that we shall have a record attendance next year.

DR. ALLEN AND MISS COURSEN ENTERTAIN

Old and New Councils Honor Guests at Stetson Estate Picnic

By A COUNCIL MEMBER.

Being a member of the Student Council has its compensations. Chaudoin was left to take care of itself last Friday while the dignified council members went on a spree. We were motor-bussed to the Stetson Estate where we fed the billy goat, threw sticks at the frogs, and teased the moth-eaten monkey, all the time hoping that Dr. Allen would perceive a hungry look in our eyes. She evidently made this observation, and conversation lagged while those present attended to the matter in hand—the disposal of delicious meat-rolls, scalloped potatoes, sandwiches, coffee, and the climax—strawberry shortcake with whipped cream. We had made an agreement in the beginning to not let bashful delicacy stand in the way of enjoyment, and we fulfilled the agreement in the spirit and in the letter.

After supper we perched along a rail and spent an hour or more in serenading ourselves.

GROUP ORGANIZED TO HOLD REGULAR PRAYER SERVICES

Organization of Christians Planned to Quicken Spiritual Life

Last week saw the germ planted for what is hoped will be one of the most influential Christian organizations on the Stetson campus. Twenty-eight Stetsonites gathered in the room over the Library devoted to meetings of various natures and there laid the foundations for a regular weekly meeting of representatives of all of the Christian organizations. This service will probably be a weekly prayer meeting. According to a rough sketch of the plan to be adopted by this group a certain time will be devoted to a study course of a Biblical nature. The teacher of this course will be selected later.

The purpose of the new organization is to assist in creating a deeper spiritual feeling and life on Stetson campus. The members of the organization will meet every Tuesday night and after a song service will have a study course followed by a prayer service. Later in the evening reports will be heard from gospel teams which will be sent out to represent this organization.

The membership of this organization will consist of every Christian on the Stetson campus. Every person interested in the spiritual life and its growth on the campus is expected and desired to be present at this mid-week prayer service.

"SENIOR VODVIL" THURSDAY AND FRIDAY NIGHTS.

Stetson Graduate Named President of County Judges

Judge John E. Peacock Elected to Head State Organization of Jurors

Judge John E. Peacock of DeLand and a graduate of the Stetson law school, has recently been given the distinction of being elected president of the County Judges' Association of the State of Florida. This honor conferred upon a graduate of Stetson brings another honor on this school this week.

Stetson University rejoices in the honor conferred upon one of her graduates. The students of Stetson congratulate Judge Peacock upon his success in law work.

Another thing of interest to this section happened at the meeting of the County Judges. DeLand was chosen as the next place for the meeting of the association.

The picnic was super-satisfactory to every one present, and made us all feel that being on the Council had its bright spots.

Dr. Allen and Marie Courson were hostesses, and the members of the incoming and outgoing Councils were present. Those who enjoyed the picnic (meaning those present—there were none who didn't enjoy it) were Kathryn Edsall, Dorothy Deitz, Debbie Smith, Maude Hackney, Helen Harrison, Hazel Overstreet, Dorothy Mosiman, Lillian Trice, Betty Summerlin, Matron Carlton and Hillis Carmean.

Uncle Dan Blocker Leaves Shorter to Go to Furman Soon

Stetson Graduate Takes Chair of Philosophy and Leaves Presidency

Life is often much more interesting in its actual events than is fiction. Actual events often far surpass in interest anything which can be conceived in fiction.

The story of the life of Uncle Dan Blocker reads better than fiction. We can glance at the high spots in his life and realize that he has climbed the ladder of success over hard milestones.

Word has just been received that Uncle Dan Blocker, for 17 years a very familiar figure on the Stetson campus, has been appointed to fill the chair of Philosophy at Furman. This news of an honor given a Stetson graduate is received here with much enthusiasm. The news also makes us pause a minute to look back over the life of Uncle Dan Blocker.

His home was in Starke, Florida. When well over 20 years of age he came to Stetson and entered in the eighth grade of school. Even at his age he stuck out the course and went through the Academy, then took his degree from the University. Later he took a chair on the Stetson faculty and became one of the most popular of its members. His reappearance here last week caused his many friends to have a delightful surprise in greeting him again.

From his Alma Mater Uncle Dan went to Shorter College where he was made president. After three years' service in that capacity he has now been offered this position on the chair of Philosophy at Furman.

We are proud to be members of the student body of the school, from which Uncle Dan graduated. We are proud to be able to claim him as one of our Alumni and patrons.

DR. HULLEY INVITED TO LECTURE AGAIN

Will Continue Work Which He Has Been Carrying on 17 Years

President Lincoln Hulley has been invited to deliver a course of lectures at the State University of Tennessee at Knoxville during the coming summer. He was there last summer for the same purpose and has been there 17 consecutive summers to lecture at the State University of Tennessee.

Next summer he will lecture on Mark Twain, Kipling, James Russell Lowell, Longfellow, and other literary themes.

Class in Hall Is Latest for Those In Stover's Course

A delightful meeting of the first period public speaking class was held one morning last week in the hall outside Mr. Stover's door. Anyone viewing the class would rightly have guessed that facial expressions and emphatic gestures were being practiced. It is to be regretted that Mr. Stover missed these expressions of amazement, disgust, humor and anger. He would certainly have felt that his efforts to induce his class to register emotions had been successful. Only the faithful few who had not been absent until the fateful morning regretted that Mr. Stover turned the key in his door at 7:45 sharp. Most of the class was glad for a holiday. It is understood that Mr. Stover also made excellent use of the extra hour. The writer would probably be in danger of arrest for slander if (he, she, or it) suggested that the professor saw that his desk was in a rather untidy condition and that it might be more profitable to remedy that situation than to wait until his class decided that it might be well to straggle in.

Mr. Stover now has one of the model classes in the University. Even before 7:45 his class is assembled, and it is to be expected that this conduct will continue throughout the term.

Editor's note—The above article was contributed by some one who noticed the above incidents. No effort has been made to check on the authenticity of the article.

STUDENTS WARNED TO ORDER ANNUALS NOW: LAST CHANCE

Oshihiyis Will Be on the Campus Late in April or Early in May

The Oshihiyi will be on the campus by the first week in May at the latest and very likely by the middle of April, according to the statement of Charles Tribble, business manager. Those who have not ordered their copy of this year book are urged to do it NOW, or it will be too late. Those who have seen the pictures to go in this year's book say it will be the best annual Stetson has ever had.

Just a few days more then—ah, but wait and see what a treat there is in store for you. Buy an annual, take it home, show it to your friends, and bring it back next year. Six hundred students is the aim for next year, and the Oshihiyi is going to bring a lot of new ones in too. The Oshihiyi is going into all the leading high schools, over the state.

When you see the athletic section and the feature section you will know then that it is THE BEST OSHIHIIYI.

Those who have not yet ordered their Oshihiyis are urged to see Charles Tribble immediately as only those annuals on which deposits are placed will be delivered in the Spring. The manager is determined to print only enough annuals this year to fill the orders. To be certain of getting an annual, it is important that you make a deposit of $2 on one immediately.

THE "SENIOR VODVIL" IS A SCREAM—SEE IT.

Rat Party Proves Another Success; Indoor Field Meet

Saturday Night Entertainment at Chaudoin Hall Has Novel Features

Freshmen Ho! was the call prevalent on the campus late Saturday afternoon and Saturday night as the plans for the freshman party in Chaudoin Hall began to materialize under the direction of the president of the class, Nathaniel O'Kelly, and Adelia Keen, chairman of the social committee. All Saturday afternoon rapid changes were made in the appearance of the back parlors.

Eight o'clock rolled around. The rats began to assemble and then the fun started. First "eye scream" cones were served—something quite unusual to have refreshments first. Next two teams were organized and an indoor field meet was held. Events on the program included the 25 yard dash, standing broad grin, endurance drive, standing high reach, and relay race.

Probably the most enthusiastic event on the program was the endurance drive. In this the girls of the two teams had to drive nails in a board, and the boys had to sew buttons on a piece of cloth.

Much yelling and enthusiastic support of both teams were features of the evening entertainment. Everybody had come to the party dressed for a "Sporting Evening."

From one booth roasted peanuts were served all during the evening. The back parlors were attractively decorated for the occasion in various colors.

The guests left saying, "Hail to the Rats."

Characters Cast For "The Whole Town is Talking"

Next Production of Theta Alpha Phi Under Way—Big Farse Show

Principal characters in the next play to be given by Theta Alpha Phi honorary dramatic fraternity have been selected and are now already at work on the production "The Whole Town is Talking," which will be presented in the University Auditorium April 17. Jake Edmunds will take the lead, and he will be assisted by Edward Henderson, Charles Tribble, Lawrence Bernard, Tubby Riffle, Billy Sessions, Ruth Dye, Laurine Goffin, Hillis Carmean and Grace Halde-man, also a large number of college girls who have not been selected as yet.

"The Whole Town is Talking" was one of the great Broadway hits last year and is being brought here by special arrangement. It is a royalty bill of a high type. This play is much funnier than "Charley's Aunt," which caused so much comment here several weeks ago at the occasion of the Alumni banquet.

"The Whole Town is Talking" is now on the road going all over the country and is proving to be a big hit at every showing.

Besides this play on April 17, "Molasses" will be given May 8 by this fraternity, and on Monday of Commencement week—May 25—"Othello" will be given in the open-air auditorium. This Shakespearean production is the climax of the year for the dramatists on the campus.

These three plays make a total of 10 to be presented this year by Theta Alpha Phi and closes one of the most successful seasons ever had by this fraternity since its organization on the campus.

STETSON SEEKING HIGHER STANDARDS BEFORE NUMBERS

Trustees Have Dropped Many Departments to Keep School at 500

The trustees at Stetson, for a good many years past, have been dropping departments to keep the numbers around five hundred, believing that better work is done in a college of that size as at Swarthmore, Williams, Amherst, and other notable institutions, than in one of the size of Columbia or indeed of those where there are two or three thousand.

Stetson has an enrollment of nearly 550 this year. In the interest of better quality and Christian ideals some have been denied the privilege of enrollment. It is Stetson's earnest desire to raise a standard that Christian men and women may repair to where their sons and daughters may pursue the studies of college courses under strong, uplifting influences.

Literary Society Holding Debating Tournament Here

Speakers Talk on Election of President for Single Term of Six Years

The Stetson Literary Society had its first debating tournament Monday night. Every member who is in the competition did or will argue on either side of the subject. Resolved That The President Should Be Elected for a Single Term of Six Years. The winners will be decided by a popular vote of the society.

There has been considerable talk on the campus of joining the Literary Society with the Alpha Phi Epsilon National Literary Fraternity of which the present chapter in Stetson is an important unit.

Prof. Seward has attended the last few meetings of the society and has been elected faculty advisor. He has aided the members very considerably by his able advice.

The next meeting of the society is next Monday night at 6:45 p. m., in the Alpha Phi Epsilon room in the library. Everyone is invited and it is hoped that there will be a large attendance.

HILLIS CARMEAN IS ELECTED PRESIDENT OF STETSON COUNCIL

Dorothy Mosiman Chosen Vice President—Meeting Held Last Week

OTHER COUNCILMEN AND OFFICERS NAMED

Stetson Taken Into Southern Association of Student Governments

Last week saw the election of the officers of the Student Council for Women for the next year. Hillis Carmean was chosen as president of the Council with Dorothy Mosiman as junior representative and vice-president. Hazel Overstreet is the senior representative and Maude Hackney the sophomore representative. The freshman representative will be elected at the opening of school next year.

Miss Carmean, newly elected president of the Council, has been very prominent in student activities on this campus since her first days on the campus. This year she has served very ably on the Student Council. J. O. Edmunds in his "Stetson Daily Chatter" in the DeLand Daily News Friday stated that Miss Carmean is the third president in the last four years to weigh less than one hundred pounds and to be less than five feet tall. He also stated she is the first to have bobbed hair. It is not known just what analogy Mr. Edmunds was trying to set forth in this article unless it be that the greatest leaders among girls are small, light, and long-haired.

Councilman at large for the Student Council is Helen Harrison. Other officers are Lillian Trice, house president second floor Chaudoin; Matron Carlton, house president third floor Chaudoin; Lucille Caywood, house president Stetson Hall.

Statement from Old Council.

To give the outgoing Council great pleasure to make the announcement of the new officers since it feels that it is leaving its work in competent hands. We trust that the student body and faculty will give them their heartiest co-operation as has always been done in the past. The Girls' Student Government Association of John B. Stetson University has recently been received into membership in the Southern Intercollegiate Student Government Association and will be represented at the next convention to be held in April at Florida State College for Women. There is a balance in the treasury sufficient for the financing of one delegate already. We are entitled to two and it is possible that another may attend.

Reports submitted at the final meeting under the outgoing Council showed that the association is making progress and that John B. Stetson University is taking its rightful place among the leading colleges in the South.

Officers Commended. Members of the outgoing Council deserve much credit for the admirable way in which they have conducted the affairs of the Council for the last year. The smoothness of the machinery has been responsible for getting around many troubles in student government affairs. The administration under the leadership of Miss Marie Courson has been in large responsible for the acceptance of the Stetson Girls' Student Government into the Southern Intercollegiate Association of Student Governments.

Governor Martin Honors Stetsonite

Judge Louis W. Strum Tells of Days Spent in This School

Governor Martin, in appointing Judge Louis W. Strum to the supreme court of Florida, honored one of Stetson's strong graduates. Judge Strum in a letter to President Hulley writes, "I often recall with pleasure and satisfaction, the pleasant and profitable days I spent at Stetson University. These associations are among the brightest spots in my life."

TRASH BASKET

I did as I had been directed and soon had acquired the startling information that Luther Schmaltz was the multimillionaire Marmalade King of the United States. According to statistics, his orange groves in Florida produced fruit enough for marmalade to furnish half the known world, including the Scandinavians, with jam
for their muffins at bedtime."The Luther Schmaltz to whom these buttons belonged is the son of the Marmalade King," explained Holmes. "The morning on which I disappeared," he went on, "I received an urgent cable from the young man asking me to come to DeLand, Florida,
where he was a student at Stetson University. Without delay I secured passage on a fast liner and arrived in DeLand just eight days later."At this point in his narrative Holmes reached for his pipe and the slipper in the toe of which he kept hisBoth men and women acclaim our dry cleaning of waists, gloves, dresses,
trousers, suits, coats, and garments and fabrics of all kinds. Why try to clean at home and run the risk of spoiling costly goods when we do the work perfectly at low rates?

continued my friend, "and drove me out to the college at once. During the ride he outlined to me the facts concerning the case. The poor boy was really in an awful state. It seemed that when he had come to college he had brought with him a new suit of evening clothes. The first week he was there an acquaintance borrowed from the guileless chap his tuxedo, to wear to some function at one of the fraternities."The next day another man borrowed Schmaltz's vest to take with him to Orlando where he was to attend a house-party at which evening clothes would be required. A few days later a third acquaintance approached the scion of the Marmalade King,
with an appeal to lend him his trousers. The young man readily consented and gave the other the required garment."Some days later, having received an invitation to attend a formal reception at one of the fraternity houses, Schmaltz started out to collect his scattered costume. The man to whom he had lent his dinner-jacket had in turn loaned it to a brother-in-law whom he thought was somewhere in Nevada at the time, but he would be back in time for the reception. The man who had borrowed the vest had,
in a moment of careless abandon,
spilled tomato broth on the garment
and sent it to Jacksonville to be cleaned. The chap to whom Schmaltz had loaned his trousers was nowhere to be found. On inquiry it was learned that he had left college suddenly,
leaving no information as to his destination."You know my methods, Watson.
Apply them." Giving me no time to do so, Holmes went on with his thrilling narrative, his voice quivering with emotion. "I immediately had Schmaltz's father wire the governor.
The next day martial law was declared in the town, and state troops were in command of the situation. All incoming and outgoing trains were watched. The time element was becoming a factor. The reception was only a day off."Schmaltz was in an agony of despair. About 7 o'clock on the evening of the reception word was brought to me that the drying establishment in Jacksonville to which the vest had been sent for cleaning had caught fire that morning and was completely destroyed. Not five minutes later one ofthe local policemen dashed up on his motorcycle. He brought no news."Earlier in the afternoon the chap who had the trousers had returned.
He was exceedingly reluctant to give them up as he wanted to wear them himself that evening, but we finally obtained them. Schmaltz would not let them out of his sight. I think that I shall never forget the way he haunted the station platform with the garment tightly clutched in his hands. He had managed to obtain another vest and was only waiting for the man who had the coat to return from Nevada.
He was expected that evening."At last the train on which he was due to arrive pulled in. Our man got off and Schmaltz and I rushed forward to nab him. He was a powerful fellow, and it was all we could do to subdue him. Schmaltz covered him with my revolver while I opened his suitcase. There on the top of a pile of shirts lay the missing tuxedo, or rather what was left of it. A bottle of acid which the fellow had with him had broken open, and the contents of the vessel had eaten away the cloth of the coat. It was an unrecognizable wreck which greeted our gaze. Those buttons are all that remains of Luther Schmaltz's coat," Holmes concluded with a wan smile.The awful strain of the last few weeks had left their mark on my friend. I think that I had never seen him more haggard, and I knew that he would never be the same man again."What did Schmaltz do?" I asked, when Holmes remained silent."Ah, yes, Watson, our thirst for the sensational must be quenched. I suppose. The climax is not especially worthy of attention. Schmaltz at the sight of his tuxedo lying there went violently insane. He commenced firing his revolver at random, and two of his shots found a mark. The careless bystander, as usual, paid the supreme penalty of another's folly. Itwas all that I could do to overcome the man. He is now confined in a padded cell in a large asylum near Atlanta."You may retell this story only when the principals have passed on.
It is one of my failures, Watson. My powers of deduction were of no avail
in coping with the crime. The force of circumstances were all against me."Here my friend took a pencil from his pocket and scratched a telephone number on his cuff. He leaned back in the chair and closed his eyes dreamily."Pass me the needle, Watson," he said.

Y. W. C. A. Cabinet Session Held at Southern College

Stetson Representatives Report Excellent Time at Annual Meeting

Y. W. C. A. CABINET TAG ...T...
March 18, 1925
Stetson U.

Dear Folks,—

It's a long time since I've written to you, but something worth telling has happened; so here goes. During the week-end beginning Friday March 13, there was held at Southern College the annual Florida Y. W. C. A. cabinet Training Council. The Stetson representatives, Charlotte Farrington, Frances Copeland, and Elizabeth Brown, left Chaudoin in a rush at 11:15 a. m. It was 11:30 by the time we actually started. That poor little taxi had three other passengers besides the three of us and all our impediments, beg pardon, baggage. One of the suitcases, not liking our company, committed suicide by jumping overboard and being run over, to the great grief of Elizabeth Hughes, its owner. The remains were recovered and the journey resumed, the party arriving at the station at 11:47 —the train came leisurely along about a half hour later. The remainder of the trip to Lakeland was not very interesting. We were most awfully warm, however, we went through the train in search of stray cross word puzzles of which we found several, almost completely unworked. We amused ourselves a while with those. Arriving at Southern, we were welcomed cordially, and immediately made to feel at home.

Miss Scanrett from Tallahassee had charge at the Council; Charlotte Farrington was the chairman. Fay Hall was the Rollins Delegate. Barbara Hines, the fourth Stetson representative, arrived the next morning. Members of the old and the new cabinets of the Southern College Y. W. C. A. completed the council. We had a preliminary meeting Friday evening, regular meetings before and after chapel Saturday morning, one Saturday afternoon, and the last that evening. We received a vast amount of inspiring help and guidance which we shall endeavor to impart to all the Stetson girls in Y. W. C. A. meetings in the near future.

Saturday morning we attended the chapel service. We cannot refrain from relating an incident which occurred there. The visitors were called on for speeches—Charlotte Farrington, speaking for Stetson, told how much she liked the looks of Southern. When the applause had subsided, the professor who was conducting chapel said to her, "Sister, sister, we like your looks, too." More applause. That afternoon we were entertained by an auto ride followed by delightful refreshments at an inn on a higher hill-top than we thought possible in Florida. In the evening the Epworth league gave a party which we attended, having a dandy time. This was followed by the serving of ice cream cones. Some of us went to Sunday school and church the next morning, leaving Lakeland soon after the services.

Southern College surely is a beautiful place, permeated by an atmosphere of charming hospitality. It would take a very long article and a very good writer to tell how much we enjoyed our visit there, and how much we think of the girls we met there. We hope to have the opportunity of meeting many of them again—at Blue Ridge and at the next meeting of the Council at Rollins in 1926.

Yours for a Bigger and Better Stetson.

Y. W. C. A.

Tuesday afternoon the 11 o'clock class of Dean Carson had a most delightful time at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Howard on East Michigan avenue. Dean and Mrs. Carson and Dr. and Mrs. Jenkins were present. Dorothy Mosiman played for the party, and Mrs. Howard and Gladys Stevens both sang. The musical program was very enjoyable. A conversational game for getting acquainted was played. Ray Hon and Miss Cressy were the biggest talkers and won the prizes. The refreshments were good beyond description. The class is planning to have another party in the near future through the kindness of Dean and Mrs. Carson.
